Synopsis

Chasing Dreamtime is the incredible true-life story of a young traveller's journey through memory and myth. In 1973, after college and a brief, disastrous marriage, Neva attempts to escape her anguish as well as the Post-Vietnam confusion of her generation by sailing alone around the world.

About the Author

As a sea-going hitchhiker, Neva Sullaway lived the story of Chasing Dreamtime well before her twenty-fifth birthday. After settling in Sydney, she soon became the Australian Women's Sailboarding Champion, a title she successfully defended for four consecutive years. She built a career as a writer and photojournalist, covering sailboarding events, in Australia, Europe and the US and wrote One with the Wind, A Guide to Sailboarding in Australia. During this time she also created a magazine for sailors, Freesail Australia, which became Australia's top-selling sailboarding magazine.
